

FOOD & WINE

INSPIRATION SERVED DAILY

Ca'del Bosco

Ca' del Bosco is featured in the September, 2016 issue of Food & Wine!

ITALY SPECIAL

EVERY-THING YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT ITALIAN WINE

BOTTLE SERVICE

NORTH TO SOUTH, EAST TO WEST, drive anywhere in Italy and what will you see? Vineyards. The country is home to dozens of wine regions and literally hundreds of native grape varieties. It produces nearly a fifth of the world's wine. So how do you navigate this abundance? Which wineries should be on your list? What can't-miss bottles should you seek out? Food & Wine has all the answers you need, with hard-earned advice on everything from how to order at a restaurant to the most exciting wine regions to visit now.
BY RAY ISLE & CARSON DEMMOND

If you love sparkling wine, try an elegant Franciacorta like this one (p. 96).

The grapes for this smoky red grow on the volcanic slopes of Sicily's Mt. Etna (p. 94).

Wine in Sicily: It's all about great Sangiovese (p. 92).

SEPTEMBER 2016

FOLLOW US @FOODANDWINE

Uncork the New Fizz

Prosecco's great—we get it. But there's more to Italian sparkling wine than bargain bubbles. Cutting-edge producers all over the country are making terrific bottles worth paying a little more for.

Franciacorta
Italy's most elegant bubbly comes from this Lombardy wine region. Producers have borrowed more than a few tricks from Champagne, including some of the grapes being used: Chardonnay and Pinot Noir.
Go-To Bottle: NV Ca' del Bosco Cuvée Prestige Brut ($45).

Banville
Wine Merchants

www.banvillewine.com