André Hueston Mack, founder of Maison Noir Wines and In Sheep's Clothing, is a pioneering winemaker who blends street culture with classic traditions to create bold, authentic, and approachable wines.

The name is a hat tip to Alonzo Harris (Training Day): "To protect the sheep you gotta catch the wolf, and it takes a wolf to catch a wolf."

In Sheep's Clothing Pinot Noir opens with inviting aromas of black cherry, ripe raspberry, and crushed cranberry, layered with hints of forest floor, fresh thyme, and a touch of cocoa powder. The palate is supple and silky, offering a harmonious balance between its juicy red fruit core and refreshing acidity. Subtle oak influence adds gentle nuances of clove and toasted almond, while soft tannins provide a smooth, lingering finish.
