GAIL wines was founded by winemaker Dan O'Brien. A native of Rhode Island, Dan grew up bussing tables and tending bars at fine dining restaurants in Providence. His early love of wine unfolded into a sommelier career, taking him from Boston to San Francisco. From stocking restaurants to managing wineries in Napa and Sonoma, Dan has worked in every aspect of the industry. With the support and encouragement of his mentors over the years, Dan produced his first vintage of wine in 2013. Today, Dan makes eponymous wines in memory of his late mother, Gail, with an adventurous California spirit and a nod to European tradition. Everything is grown and produced in the Sonoma Valley, a place she would have considered paradise.
