

Andriano

Rubeno Lagrein Alto Adige DOC

The Lagrein varietal dates back to the 17th century in this region, thus it is recognized as one of the oldest in the Sud Tyrol area. Lagrein is noted for the deep red color it gives the wine and its unique fruity/spicy flavor profile. The grapes are handpicked and fermented in temperature-controlled stainless steel tanks that also ensure the gentle must movement of the wine. For malolactic fermentation the wine is transferred to large oak casks where the wine rests until bottled.

Grape varieties Lagrein

Altitude 250 m ASL

Soil Red clay soil with gravel and stones

Alcohol 13.50%

Tasting notes

This garnet-red wine has hues of violet-purple. The aroma is intense with aromas of berries and violet flowers. In the mouth the wine is silky soft and round with a hint of spice. It is full-bodied with nicely integrated tannins and a persistent elegant finish.

Banville

Wine Merchants

www.banvillewine.com

Andriano

Rubeno Lagrein Alto Adige DOC

The Lagrein varietal dates back to the 17th century in this region, thus it is recognized as one of the oldest in the Sud Tyrol area. Lagrein is noted for the deep red color it gives the wine and its unique fruity/spicy flavor profile. The grapes are handpicked and fermented in temperature-controlled stainless steel tanks that also ensure the gentle must movement of the wine. For malolactic fermentation the wine is transferred to large oak casks where the wine rests until bottled.

Grape varieties Lagrein

Altitude 250 m ASL

Soil Red clay soil with gravel and stones

Alcohol 13.50%

Tasting notes

This garnet-red wine has hues of violet-purple. The aroma is intense with aromas of berries and violet flowers. In the mouth the wine is silky soft and round with a hint of spice. It is full-bodied with nicely integrated tannins and a persistent elegant finish.

Banville

Wine Merchants

www.banvillewine.com

Andriano

Rubeno Lagrein Alto Adige DOC

The Lagrein varietal dates back to the 17th century in this region, thus it is recognized as one of the oldest in the Sud Tyrol area. Lagrein is noted for the deep red color it gives the wine and its unique fruity/spicy flavor profile. The grapes are handpicked and fermented in temperature-controlled stainless steel tanks that also ensure the gentle must movement of the wine. For malolactic fermentation the wine is transferred to large oak casks where the wine rests until bottled.

Grape varieties Lagrein

Altitude 250 m ASL

Soil Red clay soil with gravel and stones

Alcohol 13.50%

Tasting notes

This garnet-red wine has hues of violet-purple. The aroma is intense with aromas of berries and violet flowers. In the mouth the wine is silky soft and round with a hint of spice. It is full-bodied with nicely integrated tannins and a persistent elegant finish.

Andriano

Rubeno Lagrein Alto Adige DOC

The Lagrein varietal dates back to the 17th century in this region, thus it is recognized as one of the oldest in the Sud Tyrol area. Lagrein is noted for the deep red color it gives the wine and its unique fruity/spicy flavor profile. The grapes are handpicked and fermented in temperature-controlled stainless steel tanks that also ensure the gentle must movement of the wine. For malolactic fermentation the wine is transferred to large oak casks where the wine rests until bottled.

Grape varieties Lagrein

Altitude 250 m ASL

Soil Red clay soil with gravel and stones

Alcohol 13.50%

Tasting notes

This garnet-red wine has hues of violet-purple. The aroma is intense with aromas of berries and violet flowers. In the mouth the wine is silky soft and round with a hint of spice. It is full-bodied with nicely integrated tannins and a persistent elegant finish.